Seasons come and go, but a well-designed home lasts forever. A home that exudes timelessness will be as tasteful today as it was yesterday and will be tomorrow. To achieve that look, you'll want to seek out designs, materials and colors that are "classic," and are meant to last.

If you want to design a home that will stand the test of time and always remain in vogue, follow these evergreen style trends.

Monochromatic Madness

Monochromatic spaces decorated with shades, tones, and hues of one colour are a popular trend in interior design. Layering shades of a single colour, for instance, pantone colour of the year- Gray, through furnishings and bedding creates an unending symphony of grace. The richness of gray can be complimented with white accessories and décor pieces like round hanging lights, circular stone tables and small potted plants can bring added visual interest. Additionally, monochromatic styling can also afford you the luxury of changing your décor whenever you like, making this a timeless choice.

A tip to keep in mind is to incorporate texture and pattern into the space to keep the visual interest alive. Marry the charismatic charm of wood with your monochromatic shades. For instance, adding a bold chevron pattern to the floor like Noce Grand from Mikasa Floors will effortlessly amp up the setting with its rich texture. These vibrant and bold engineered wooden floor designs help weave personality and character into your space, bringing it to life with the simple tweak of colours. Also, Mikasa Floors are composed of three layers – real hard wood, a stabilizing core and a balancing layer, which provides solidity and stability in all types of climate. To keep the colour from falling flat and the space feeling drab, incorporate elements of metal and natural stone in your furniture. This helps in creating a soothing and engaging atmosphere.

Keep it Au Naturel

All good designs draw inspiration from nature. Bringing the outdoors indoors is now a big hit in the home décor arena. Natural materials and earth tones tend to be versatile and never fail to make the bedroom feel cozy and inviting. Take cues from the wild- browns, tans, grays and beiges are the main colours to incorporate. An accent wall with wood paneling in a warm shade juxtaposed with cool tone furniture will give the space a much-desired rustic vibe.

To maintain the contemporary panache of the space, balancing light wood with moodier accents is key. For instance, the light brown shade of Oak Stockholm engineered wooden floor from Mikasa Real Wood Floors when paired with dark grey or deep beige cuts through the congestion and livens the whole space up by its striking chevron pattern. Mikasa Chevron Collection is inspired by the rich and delicate elements of roman architecture. The chevron planks are cut at an angle of 45 degrees on the short ends to create a continuous zigzag design, which brings warmth and accentuates the lushness of the space. Adorn the space with pampas plants, rattan or wicker vases and hanging lights, and a minimalist bookshelf, and you have yourself a serene retreat.

Nordic Haven

Minimalism may be trending, but there is one champion of clean design that will never go out of style- Scandinavian. This nordic style includes a blend of textures and soft hues to make a sleek, modern décor feel warm and inviting. It emphasizes clean lines, utility, and simple furnishings that are functional, beautiful, and cozy. Bedding of neutral colours with white lighting fixtures and timeless furniture like swan chairs warmed up by blonde-wood accents is a must. White sleek tables by the side of the bed keep the space looking simplistic.

Styling the floors with Mikasa Floors' Oak Sea Mist from the chevron collection provides a dramatic contrasting pattern, which is the hallmark of Scandinavian design. The collection is exquisitely crafted for anyone who hopes to express their individuality and exclusivity through the art of interior decoration. When the bright light hits this exuberant statement floor, the liveliness as well as the simplicity of the space is accentuated, making this a visual treat for the classic design-oriented eye. Other light wood accents and muted styling items pair well with this style, a plush throw blanket or a cozy rug will make the space sufficiently warm and enchanting. Remember to keep it as bare as possible, as Scandinavians believe in having less possessions. Declutter your space if you need to.
