

Articles » Property Punditz

All you need to know about romantic interior designing

By Parul Mittal, Director - Marketing & Design, Greenlam Industries Ltd.

July 27, 2018  20Share on

Contrary to popular belief, romantic interior designing isn't just about floral prints and frills. It's definitely not just rose petals spread across a room. The beauty in bringing back the romance lies in its versatility. Romantic, alluring designs can fit into almost any space, from rustic to contemporary comfortably.

Curious? Then cue a few slow jams and join us as we take you through the world of passion and vehemence in design.

Wood You?

Romance is all about going brazenly bold and making your feelings known while enjoying blissful surroundings that echo peace and tranquillity. Having said that, wood always creates warm and cosy settings if paired with mellow lighting to bright lighting interiors. While dark wood reflects deep passion, and is synonymous with the depth of your feelings, pairing it with the Herringbone flooring pattern brings a luxurious brown tint that intensifies the comfort of your home. The Herringbone pattern is well known for its way around stagnant and tough spaces. It brings back a vibrancy that is a direct reflection of the ever-growing passion of romance. Shaped by time, weather and history the many applications of wood will do well to fuel the flames of ardour.

Passion Personified

Looking to woo your loved one in a more classical manner? Bright and beautiful laminates which come in patterns and textures are your answer. Although it sounds simple, bright laminates are possibly one of the most successful ways of kindling boundless passion. With a wide variety of designs to choose from, the patterns are suitable for any room and have a timeless feel to it. Interested in playing a little? You can play around a little bit by using alternate colour tones with the patterns to maximize its intense appeal which is quite pleasing to the eye.

While colours provide that fierceness that you need, soft and vibrant patterns allow the convergence of the magnetizing features of wood to modern day homes. Be it a choice of laminate colour and texture or the herringbone flooring pattern, it will always be distinct and bold. Make sure to gift your space and your partner with these beautiful trends and see your romance come alive with undying charisma.

Disclaimer: The views expressed in the article are solely of the author and may not represent 99acres.com's opinions on the subject. 99acres.com does not take responsibility for any actions taken based on the information shared by the author.

X

DID YOU FIND THE INFORMATION
YOU WERE LOOKING FOR?

