Parul Mittal, director, Greenlam Industries, tells us three ways of weaving patterns into our living spaces

Patterns not only add a pop of colour and texture, she says, but also make an elegant pairing with your wooden floors

Gone are the days when beige and browns were considered too muted and dull. Reboot your interiors with colours like brown and cremes with gold accents that exude confidence and joy. Try to keep minimal statement furnishings with open spaces, beautiful wall art and a coffee table that will imbibe a touch of whimsy in your room. Oak Winter by Mikasa (premium engineered wooden floors from the house of Greenlam Industries) can be used as the base for such a composition.

While an engineered veneer is not a natural product, it is reconstituted to make pre-designed appearance. These decorative veneers are eco-friendly with an ability to match natural patterns. They offer a timeless elegance when paired with tones of ash grey, off-white and pastel brown. Place vintage yet minimal wall hangings along with statement furnishings which will give a whole new spin to this look. Incorporate classic swinging chairs in black for a modern and authentic ambience. Silver Streaks by Decowood Veneers (from the house of Greenlam Industries) is one such product that will help create this look.

Today, a trendy bathroom calls for a lustrous and high-quality surface such as Greelam's anti-fingerprint (AFX) laminates. Anti-fingerprint laminates will keep your surfaces impression free making them last longer. Making the surface non-porous and hydro-repellant, they are easy to clean impurities as well as grease marks. Make room for blush tones and cool pastel colours to animate your space. More than statement walls, modern countertops are making their way to interiors. Simply opt for rejuvenating succulents, a metallic flower vase, aromatic candles and air fragrances. For the best outcome, you can go creative with opulent or minimal bathroom lighting with hanging bulbs and vintage ship lights.
